"Divorced" Wife Wins Her Support

District Court Refuses to Recognize Alexandria Decree Given to Husband.

WASHINGTON, March 15.—The first of Little Reno's famous divorce decrees was today declared void by the District Supreme Court.

Despite the fact that members of the Little Reno divorce ring have their clients that Judge Moncre's divorce decrees "are as good as though granted by the United States Supreme Court," the local court today had otherwise.

The first "test" of authority between the local court and Little Reno's divorce ring came this morning when Judge Bailey, of the District Supreme Court waived the Little Reno divorce decree and ordered Julius W. Dorsey locked up. Dorsey had been paying his wife maintenance for their two children. Overtures were made to him by agents of the Little Reno divorce ring that he could "stop that marital business" if he would get a divorce in Alexandria against his wife.

The idea fell on fertile soil and Dorsey engaged Charles Henry Smith, Little Reno's representative in the State Legislature, to represent him.

The matter was made simple by using Mrs. Mary L. Baggett, Little Reno's divorce queen to make the affidavit that Dorsey lived in her home and the divorce went through without a hitch.

The divorce was "acted" by Judge Moncre on September 14, on the testimony of Mrs. Baggett. Dorsey thought he had shaken the shackles of his first matrimonial venture.

He married again on November 15. All of this happened without any knowledge of wife Number One who was sued on the grounds of three years' desertion.

After several months of delay, wife Number One appeared to the local court for the maintenance money for her two children. Dorsey had advised her the facts came out Dorsey

Little Lost Boy's Life Saved by Dog With Brains

CUMBERLAND, Md., March 14.—Clad only in his rompers of flannel material and a blue sweater coat Howard, 3 1/2-year-old son of Scott Leydig, spent all of last night in the woods four miles from his home, watched by a big shepherd dog belonging to a neighbor. It was long after daylight this morning when the posse of seven dogs, consisting of citizens of Gravel Pit, Bedford county, Pa., were returning from their all-night hunt covering 19 miles that the lad, with his hands on the back of the faithful dog, came tearing out of the underbrush half-crying with joy. He was found by James Kelley, a member of the party, and others did not learn of the recovery until they congregated again at 1 o'clock home to prepare to resume the hunt. Little Howard told Kelley he saw the searchers' lantern light through the woods and had called to them but his baby voice was not strong enough to carry and disappear. When asked what he had done during the night he said he curled up upon the ground and the dog laid down, too. Asked if he had cried he said he did but the dog licked his hands until he fell asleep. Further questioning brought out the fact that the dog had laid partly upon the child and his heavy coat of fur kept him warm. The lad's disappearance was not discovered until 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon although it is believed he slipped away unnoticed between 2 and 3 o'clock. The report of his loss soon spread in the neighborhood and a searching party started out led by the father, while the mother remained at home frantic with grief.

Fireman Is Charged With Grand Larceny

NORFOLK, Va., March 14.—At the request of counsel for the defense, the case of Dempsey Moncrell Bell, aged 23, member of the city fire department, charged with grand larceny in connection with the alleged theft of two watches from the building at 216-218 Bank street a week ago last Saturday, was yesterday continued by Police Justice Simmons until March 21. Bell was released on bail in the sum of $1,000 for his appearance in court on that date.

The missing watches were property of H. H. Poole, 1700 Granby street, who, with his wife and baby were in the Bank street house at the time of the fire, and police have been searching for them ever since. Fire Chief Petty has been assisting the police department and reported Saturday afternoon, it is said, that Bell had confessed to having taken the articles and had told him what disposition was made of them. One of the watches, it is said, was found in his possession.

A warrant was sworn out against Bell and he was arrested Saturday night by Detectives Fleet and W. J. Williams. After the case has been disposed of in police court Bell will be given a hearing by the fire trial board on charges that have been preferred against him by Chief Petty.

The Happiest Time of Her Life

Admiration, attention—groups of eager young men awaiting her appearance and more partners than she can dance with—this makes girlhood days the happiest time of a woman's life.

To miss this popularity is a tragedy. Yet many girls are socially unsuccessful because of some lack in charm.

What constitutes this charm is hard to define—but one thing is certain. The popular girl, the successful girl, the gay, happy, all-admired girl, is always distinguished by a fresh, radiant skin.

How to have this perfect complexion is the problem of many girls, but we can solve it for you. It's a simple secret, discovered many thousand years ago.

What spoils complexions

Every day your skin accumulates a coating of dust, dirt and general soil. Every day you apply powder, and every day most women use a little or much cold cream.

This dirt, powder and cold cream penetrates the tiny skin pores and fills them. Perspiration completes the clogging. You can judge for yourself what happens if you fail to wash these accumulations away.

Once a day your skin needs careful, thorough cleansing to remove these clogging deposits. Otherwise you will soon be afflicted with coarseness, blackheads and blotches.

How soap beautifies

Mild, pure, soothing soap, such as Palmolive, is a simple yet certain beautifier. Its profuse, creamy lather penetrates the network of skin pores and dissolves all dangerous deposits. Gentle rinsing carries them away.

Brunen Murder May Be Cleared To-day, Prosecutor Hopes

Official Will Make Striking Move to Solve What He Calls "Carefully Planned Plot."

RIVERSIDE, N. J., March 15.—A move that promises to be as striking as it is important, will be made today by Prosecutor Jonathan Kelsey of Burlington county, in the expectation that it will result in solving the mystery of who murdered "Honest John" Brunen, the rich carnival promoter, as he sat at his window reading last Friday night.

"This killing was not an offhand affair, not a suddenly conceived crime of passion; it was a carefully planned, well laid out plot," the attorney told a correspondent for a local paper this evening at Mount Holly, the county seat. "Its execution was excellent. If such a word may be used to describe such a tragic affair, it is perfect. I intend to take to learn just who tore away part of John Brunen's head with a shotgun and just why."

It is not permissible at this time to reveal Kelsey's plan of action. Such revelation might defeat the ends of justice and possibly cause a long delay, or even a total failure, in the plans he and Chief Ellis Parker of the county detective force have for reaching a quick solution of the problem. But the project, it may be said, presents fascinating possibilities.

In the belief of Prosecutor Kelsey, there are five different angles from which the question of who killed Brunen may be approached. He puts it this way:

Let us represent the crime as the hub of a wheel into which five spokes are set leading to the center. We intend to follow each of the spokes from its outer end to the hub, and in this way we may reach the solution. We intend to dwell intensively with each of what I may call our "five points." It is known the five points are:

Point One.—Not long ago Brunen had a quarrel with a German cook for one of his traveling show outfits. He "smiled the man. The man was down to possess a shotgun. He was also heard to threaten that he would "get Brunen some day. Where was this cook last Friday night? It is admitted, however, not much hope is placed in this point.

Point Two.—At Mount Carmel, Pa., four years ago, Brunen shot and killed a man in a row over the electric lighting of his carnival grounds. But Brunen was acquitted on the ground of self-defense, for there was a general lighting house in which he himself was attacked. Did any friend or relative of the electrician plan and execute the murder of last week? This is not regarded as a very tenable theory.

Point Three.—Last September Brunen's daughter, Hazel, eloped with William Parkston, a lion tamer, against her father's wishes, but with her mother's approval. The young couple have since been separated. At the time of Friday night's killing, Parkston was in Perth Amboy at a dance. But could this elopement in any way have precipitated the murder?

New York. Did anything in connection with that odd affair inspire his killing?

Point Five.—This must, at present, be described only with an interrogation point. It really is the most important point, the most plausible of all theories, but it may not be here revealed.

All sorts of odds and ends of information are being run down by Chief Parker. He intends to delve deeply into that robbery of the $3,000 worth of diamonds, and he would like to know if they were insured. He would like to know, too, if either of the men who got the game—and who have never been punished, threatened Brunen's life upon learning he was on their trail, or whether they might not, having got away with that job successfully, also have been engaged for the death enterprise of Friday night.

There are many other things to be looked into. For instance, a couple of years ago "Honest John" Brunen, who loved the life of the traveling carnival, suddenly sold out his interest in a big show and announced he was retiring. The reason he gave had a connection with his family, which he wished, suddenly, to remove from the atmosphere of that particular show. The reason being removed, he was just about to start out with a new 1922 outfit worth $100,000 or more when he was killed. Just what made him wish to withdraw his family from the show he sold? The answer may have had something to do with his death.

There were many baseless reports today about mysterious automobiles seen racing through various towns nearby, but these rumors led nowhere and meant nothing. The best hope for a solution lies in Prosecutor Kelsey's action planned for tomorrow.

Brunen will be buried tomorrow afternoon. Funeral services to be attended by his employees in a body and a great number of Riverside friends, will be held at 2 o'clock. Interment will be at Beverly, nearby.

Theater Inquiry Ends This Week

WASHINGTON, March 14.—The second official investigation into the Knickerbocker theatre disaster, which cost the lives of ninety-seven persons, will be completed this week. District Attorney Gordon said yesterday the grand jury would conclude its hearings of witnesses today or tomorrow and should reach a decision on its investigations by Thursday or Friday.

Ten witnesses, practically all remaining to be summoned, will be placed before the jury today. Major Gordon said yesterday. This will complete the list of 30 witnesses summoned to appear before this body.

Testimony of the crash conducted by expert engineers have already been placed before the jury. The testimony of these two bodies—the joint board of army and navy engineers and the committee of Washington Chapter American Institute of Architects—outlined causes for the collapse which practically co-incident. Both committee reports pointed out a series of defects in construction and designing which they claimed made the building faulty. The report of architects was printed in The Washington Herald.

Nine men are now held for action of the grand jury, including all persons connected with the designing, construction and inspection of the ruined theater building.

Hoover Opens War On Business Cycle

Will Endeavor to Find Solution of Present Business Depression — Will Take Six Months.

By HARRY HUNT.

WASHINGTON, March 15.—As an engineer, not as secretary of commerce, Herbert Hoover as set under way a study of how to control or eliminate the "business cycle" which now swings the nation alternately from periods of prosperity to hard-time levels of depression and unemployment.

At a conference called for Washington March 21, representatives of trade associations will be asked to cooperate in the study and to assist in carrying out whatever final recommendations may be made.

Hoover hopes to produce a gently unslating plan of general prosperity.

The new undertaking is an outgrowth of views and material developed by the president's unemployment conference held last fall.

Convinced that only a sound scientific control of the economic factors entering into the recurrent ups and downs of business can solve the problem that conference undertook, Hoover secured from the Carnegie Foundation an appropriation of $50,000 to finance an expert inquiry into how such control could be effected.

Then he secured Wesley C. Mitchell, of the National Bureau of Economic Research, of New York, to direct the investigation, with Edward Eyre Hunt as right hand assistant.

To take six months.

All sorts of national business, social and labor agencies will contribute to the study, which is expected to consume about six months. In setting the inquiry under way, Hoover says:

"There is a solution somewhere, and its working out will be the greatest blessing yet given to our economic system, both to the employer and the employee."

The viewpoint from which the experts who are to study the situation approach it is set out by Hunt, who will be secretary of the committee.

"Unemployment on a vast scale is always a result of business depression," says Hunt. "The problem of unemployment, then, is only a part of the larger one of preventing or mitigating alterations of business activity and stagnation."

"The business cycle is marked by peak periods of boom between valleys of depression and unemployment."

"The peak periods of boom are times of speculation, over-expansion, extravagance in living, relaxation in effort, wasteful expenditure in industry and commerce with consequent destruction of capital."

"The valleys are marked by business stagnation, unemployment, and suffering."

"Both these extremes are vicious, and the vices of the one beget the vices of the other."

"It is the astute, the miscalculations, the miscalculations grown rampant during booms that make inevitable the painful process of liquidation."

"The most hopeful way to check the losses and misery of depression is therefore to check the feverish extremes of 'prosperity.' And the best time to act is at a fairly early stage in the growth of the boom!"

Organizations Active.

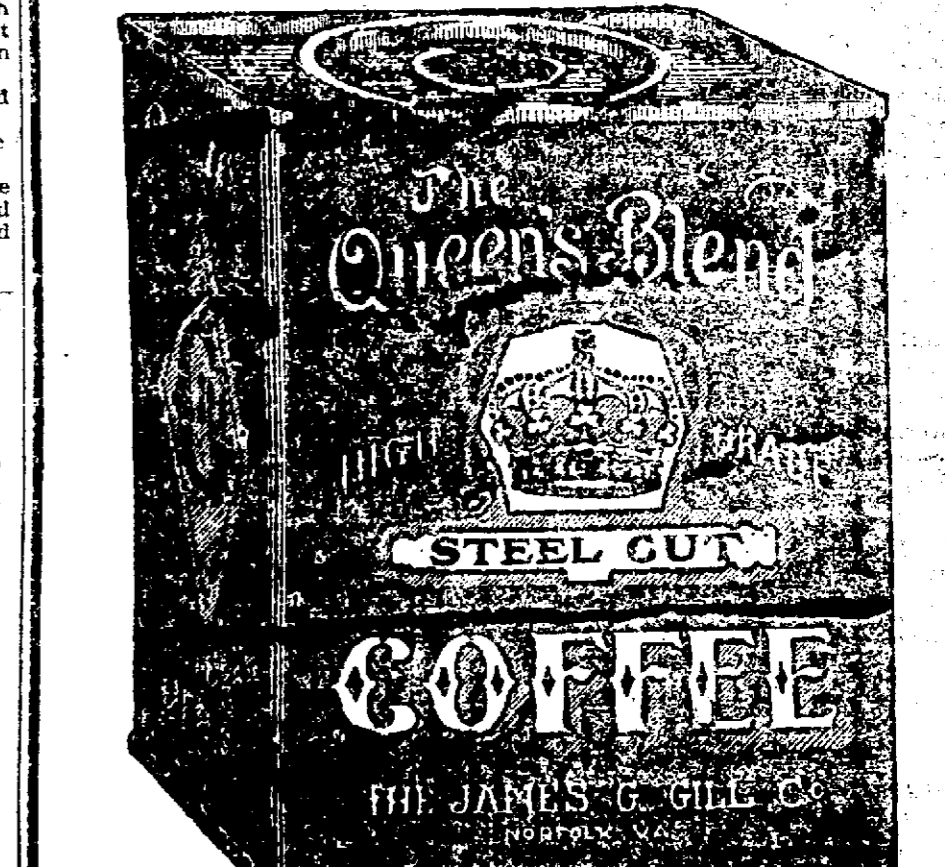

Working in the effort to chart a pleasantly level landscape for American business, under Hoover's new program, will be experts from the Federal Reserve Board, the American Engineering Societies, the Department of Commerce, the Department of Labor, the United States Chamber of Commerce, National Bureau of Economic Research, the Bureau of Railway Economics, the Russell Sage Foundation, and many others.

Johnson Murder Case Is Up Again

RUSTBURG, March 14.—(Sd J. McCormick, St. Louis, two months ago in the murder charge against R. T. Shields and Lonnie Moran in connection with the death of H. H. Johnson, a near six mile haul, in November, 1921, at Rustburg, for indictment for complicity in the murder of the old man.)

McCormick, who declared the burial place of Johnson about 10 months after the murder, testified that Shields and Moran did the shooting and carried the body to the burial of the body. At the end of the trial, which resulted in a hung jury, Judge W. R. Beasley, who presided over the trial, issued a bench warrant for McCormick, who was arrested the next day. He was held.

Tomorrow the case became an investigation into an alleged moonshining ring in the eastern part of Campbell county, which is involved, it is believed in Johnson's murder. W. H. Steele, a justice of the peace, will be the first defendant to face a jury, this charge being that of moonshining.

Wednesday Steele is to be tried on the charge of shooting Moran and Shields when he went to the latter's home after the finding of Johnson's body, to arrest them on the murder charge.

Thursday R. T. Shields and Lonnie Moran go on trial again for the murder of Johnson and after this, cases against R. T. Shields and Lonnie Moran for alleged moonshining and against R. T. Shields, Moran and Hardy Shields for shooting at Steele and his posse, will be set for trial.

It is believed that the commonwealth as well as the defense in the Shields-Moran murder trial will undertake to present a mass of new evidence at the second trial of the case and it may be that the trial will run into next week.

Makes Difference Which Sex Rolls 'Em

CHICAGO, March 14.—"Maybe I did wrong, but I couldn't help it," said today by Carl Sattler, who had been arrested on complaint of Mrs. Abel Wallace, who charged that Sattler took too much notice of Mrs. Wallace, a two month notice of Mrs. A. E. London, 20, and Mollie Wallace, 17, in a street car. Sattler told the court the young women wore knee length skirts and as he could plainly see, rolled stockings.

"My attention was first attracted to this group," Sattler told the judge, "when they began to look at me and exchange sharp remarks. Then all of a sudden the older woman leaned forward and shook her finger at me and said, 'A policeman ought to get you,'" she said. "Your appearance is disgraceful. I won't have these innocent girls looking at such a disgraceful exhibition."

Sattler looked down and discovered that the cuff of one trouser leg had crawled up about half an inch over the contact point of his garter, exposing a patch of his shin. He blushed.

"I am sorry," he said. "But those young women with you are displaying more than I am. And I haven't complained."

He ended the argument for the time being, but when he alighted the women pursued him and had him arrested.

After Judge Morgan had imposed a $5 fine, Sattler announced his intention of starting a movement for equal rights and of avoiding trouble in the future by wearing no socks at all.

Blue Flame from Nowhere Menaces Bedridden Woman

ALVA, Okla., March 14.—Blue flames from a gas heater burst into being apparently from the air itself and threaten with a horrible death Mrs. Ona Smith, 23, an invalid, who has been paralyzed on a bed in a little cottage here.

The authorities are baffled and the woman cowers. Beside watchers, day and night, can only lean to the rescue as the fire burst out in the bedding clothing worn by Mrs. Smith, wall draperies or any inflammable material in the room.

Two mattresses have been burned, a calendar on the wall has been ignited, a shawl worn by the invalid has burst into flames and several other blazes have started in bedding in the last few days.

The first fire came at midnight Wednesday. The flames from the bottom of the mattress on the bed were extinguished by Mrs. Smith's mother, Mrs. John Meyers. Later the mattress caught fire in another spot. A new mattress burst into flames yesterday morning in front of a newspaper reporter.

Dr. C. L. Rogers, who was called in after the first blaze failed to solve the mystery. Witnesses say the fire seem to start in the air.

Belle of Roslyn Slain By Admirer, Who Kills Self

Miss Virginia Forget, 19, Is Shot by Jealous Carpenter, 45, Whom She Had Ignored.

NEW YORK, March 14.—Miss Virginia Forget was the belle of the village of Roslyn, Long Island. Born in France, reared in America, dark, pretty, alluring, smartly business-like, she was secretary to the village justice, A. P. Westcott, and sub-owner in his electrical supplies store.

The boys of Roslyn flocked to the shop at the foot of the hill close to the estate of Clarence H. Mackay, and they kept the attractive Virginia supplied with candy and other tokens of their admiration.

At 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon she was shot and killed by a morose carpenter, William McGee, 45 years old, who put a bullet over his own heart and lived long enough to maintain about his objections to Virginia receiving presents, when he told her not to take them.

McGee leaves a wife and two children. His whining excuses for his murder of the girl exhibited an egotistic perversity, assuming an authority over the brilliant, human personality of the young woman, unfounded in anything but his evaginated notion of his own importance. He was a customer and she treated him civilly. She had known his nearly all her life as a simple village character.

McGee spent two hours, before shooting the girl, in the Pickard drugstore opposite the electrical shop, apparently brooding over the affront to his subnormal imagination, conveyed by sight of the pleasure every man took in going to buy from Virginia. He waited until she was alone, crossed the road, and shot her through the heart.

In Nassau hospital, Mineola, he whimpered about warning the girl not to take presents, said he told her, and that she laughed at him. Then he died. His wife, who went to the hospital, would not talk about the tragedy.

Virginia Forget was 19, daughter of Napoleon Forget, who came from France with his family soon after her birth, set up a blacksmith and wheelwright shop, proved a good workman and thrifty, bought farm land cheaply and sold it in recent years as town lots.

The result of a monthly meeting of the Travellers' Aid Society has been postponed until further notice.

Record Apple Crop Forecast for Fall

WINCHESTER, March 14.—The Frederick County Fruit Growers' association has about completed a campaign for the removal of hundreds of red cedars from around apple orchards, and it was learned last evening that little or no objection was raised by owners of the menacing trees. Officers of the association expressed themselves as being pleased with the attitude of most of the people on whose properties the cedars were cut down.

The state law provides for removal of red cedars on lands within two miles of a commercial apple orchard. The York Imperial, the principal variety grown in this district, has been attacked severely by cedar rust in recent years, but the cedar trees gradually are being "weeded out," and there has been a notable improvement in the quality of apples.

Weather conditions thus far have been ideal for orchards. The moderately cold weather of the last three months has kept down sap flow, and apple buds still are in a more or less dormant state.

Blown to Death By His Own Bomb

NEW YORK, March 14.—Peter Pechiro, 26, who did not work, but dressed well, kept strange hours and vanquished the police on each of the three occasions they sought to send him to prison, was blown to death last night by a bomb he had just finished making in his three-room home in the tenement No. 355 East 76th St.

His wife, Angelina, 22, and his son, Joe, three, in the next room, were hurried against a wall. The explosion wrecked the flat, smashed windows all over the house and tore a hole two feet wide through the floor and through a metallic ceiling below. The wife and child escaped serious injury.

Two canary birds were the Pechiro pets. Peter's bomb smashed out the bottoms of both cages. When the noise entered, one of the birds was chirping, and the carnage from a perch above a doorway. The other may have flown out through a shattered window or may have been blown to pieces. It was not visible.

A plumber by trade, Pechiro had not worked in several years. The police know him for a direct, not commutative person. He had been arrested for peddling cocaine, later for carrying a revolver, then for stealing an automobile. But he "beat" each case. The police had not suspected him of being a bomb-maker.

The device which killed him was fashioned evidently in a business-like manner and calculated to do some one much harm. It was an inch and one-half galvanized pipe, into which the maker had packed sulphuric acid, charcoal and several other ingredients, applied a fuse and was most likely pressing a cap upon it when his creation turned on him.

The police have no notion as to the intended objective of Peter's bomb. They have some letters under suspicion. The dead man's wife said she did not know that Peter was making an explosive, but the police do not believe her. She was of little assistance to them last night.

Flu Scourge Is Now At Its Crest

The epidemic of influenza continues in Danville with numerous new cases recorded. At the monthly meeting of the Danville Academy of Medicine held last night one physician expressed the view that the epidemic is just now at its crest. There have been fortunately no fatalities from the disease during its course so far, comparatively few patients suffering from dangerous complications which were so manifest during the first two epidemics of the disease.

DETAILS OF MANY MARRIAGES ARE BEING UNRAVELED

INDIANAPOLIS, March 14—Some of the tangled threads in the matrimonial ventures of Isalah Moore, 32, choirster, church worker and mother of many wives and many children, are being unraveled today with receipt of reports from other cities bearing evidence concerning some of his numerous marriages.

Moore is said by the police to have admitted he has at least 14 or 15 wives scattered throughout the country, but he has been able to remember the names of only 11 of them. The story of his matrimonial escapades has been verified in several instances and police believed information concerning the others will be forthcoming.

Moore waited preliminary examination in city court today and was held to the grand jury under $5,000 bond. He seemed to be highly nervous when he appeared in court. Later when questioned in his cell, regarding his frequent marriages, Moore said: "I think it was all due to my nervous condition. It seems that as long as I was petted and 'babied' my condition was improved. At other times I would feel depressed and lonely and want to run away. Then I would find some one else and fall in love with them for a time."

Moore was taken into custody in Minneapolis several days ago by an operative of a private detective agency as the result of a complaint made by his wife who was Miss Harriett Evans, an Indiana school teacher. He was engaged to marry a girl in Minneapolis when arrested, it was said.

NO SPACE IS WASTED IN THIS TWO STORY, SIX-ROOM HOUSE

The English type of architecture is finding a constantly-increasing popularity in this country. That fact is call that it is the most domestic of all domestic types, and that the Americans are a home-loving people.

Steep roofs to shed rain and snow, and many casements courting sunshine speak the English love of the great outdoors. Yet the English insist upon privacy, too. This characteristic is reflected in English architecture by the design of the exterior doors, by the location of the porches and their treatment, by the arrangement of the rooms themselves.

Has Six Rooms.

The six-room home illustrated here is of English design in every detail, interesting, wholly charming, and not expensive. It is carefully planned so that not a bit of space is wasted. Standard sizes of easily-obtainable materials are used, and stock patterns and sizes of woodwork of the correct English architectural design.

The floor plans are as fascinating as the exterior. The interesting-shaped sunparlor is an alcove off the great living room. Opposite it, in the most charming, secluded nook imaginable, is that symbol of home, the fireplace. At either side of the living room are attractive French doors. At one side, these open upon a porch. At the other upon a stair hall. The hall is shielded from drafts and intrusion by a vestibule, so essential in a well-planned home.

There are French doors between dining room and porch, and pairs of casements at the side and rear.

Kitchen Is Roomy.

In the kitchen there is space for range, refrigerator, built-in cupboard sink with two drainboards, and a built-in ironing board.

Another sink and many convenient cupboards make the pantry a kitchenette in itself. Between kitchen and dining room it keeps noises and odors of the kitchen out of the dining room. The three bedrooms upstairs fairly revel in closet space. There are large ones and small, tray cases, linen closet, and a built-in dressing table. Light and ventilation they have in goodly measure, too. The sleeping porch adds materially to the housing capacity of this home.

A large well-ventilated attic not only provides storage space but means cooler rooms in summer and a more easily heated house in winter.

BRANDS ON GOODS UNDER DISCUSSION

WASHINGTON, March 14—Whether manufacturers who use brands on articles produced by them which are common and known to the trade can be prosecuted for using unfair methods of competition because the brands may mislead the purchasing public was orally argued today in the supreme court in a case brought by the Federal Trade commission against the Winsted Hosiery company, of Connecticut.

The government insisted that the use by the company of the words "Merino" wool and "worsted" in labelling underwear composed of a small amount of wool and a large amount of cotton was an imposition upon the public and that this view had been recognized by certain manufacturers' associations which had recommended the abandonment of practice. The Winsted Hosiery company had agreed Solicitor General Beck stated in presenting the case for the government, that it would discontinue the use of all designations to which the Federal Trade commission had objected, with the exception of "Merino."

Justice Pittney suggested that the business methods presented indicated that some manufacturers were "willing to play the game against the public."

M. J. France, counsel for the company, declared there had been no misbranding and no practice by the company which constituted an unfair advantage or an objectionable discrimination because it had been the custom of the trade, common understood and practiced by all manufacturers of knit goods.

SIX JURORS IN ARBUCKLE CASE ARE SELECTED

SAN FRANCISCO, March 14—Six jurors had been accepted tentatively at the close of today's session in the third manslaughter trial of Roscoe C. (Patty) Arbuckle. Two of them were women. Only half-day session of court was held on account of the funeral of a sister of one of the prospective jurors.

The prosecution attempted to ask one of the women members of the venire what she would do if it were shown that Arbuckle had told three different versions of events at a party in his hotel apartment here September 3, 1921, which were followed four days later by the death of Miss Virginia Rappé, but defense objections to the questions were sustained.

Booze Expose Is Made In Richmond

RICHMOND, March 14.—Tom Tisdale, a resident near this city, threw a bombshell into social, business and court circles here today in testifying in case of commonwealth vs. Tom Tisdale, tried in circuit court under an indictment charging him with manufacturing liquor. On the stand Tisdale said his moonshine plant was purchased, installed and the material for its operation was furnished by prominent Stauntonians, giving names of the "company" as Dr. S. C. Neff, Captain E. Guy Kille, Commonwealth's Attorney H. H. Kerr, of Augusta county, Harry Fauver, A. T. Higginbotham and Wm. A. Grubert. All reside in Staunton with the exception of Grubert who is now resident of Richmond, being on the staff of Federal Prohibition Director Robert A. Fawcett. These men represent leaders in professional and business life here.

Following Tom Tisdale's story Dr. Neff, A. T. Higginbotham, Captain Kille, Harry Fauver and Commonwealth's Attorney Kerr testified. With the exception of Kerr all four men admitted making an arrangement with Tisdale more than a year ago to manufacture brandy for their private use. Dr. Neff admitted "getting" the still and helping Tisdale put it into operation. He and the other three men admitted contributing towards its operation, but all except Kerr said they never got any brandy. Kille said he made several trips to Tisdale's home in the county but could not remember how much he had taken away. All four exonerated Commonwealth's Attorney of any connection with the "company." Dr. Neff said Tisdale was to make brandy exclusively for the "company's" benefit, and when they learned the distiller was furnishing booze to "outsiders"

MUCH EVIDENCE BUT NO ARRESTS

JACKSONVILLE, March 14.—Pluck load of evidence but no one to place it against is the summary of today's county-wide moonshine hunt carried out by more than 100 specially deputized citizens under the direction of Sheriff's deputies and federal agents.

An itemized statement of the day's accomplishments as prepared by Sheriff Merritt follows:

Twenty-five stills, 18 worms, 839 barrels of mash; 11 sacks of coal, 11 barrels of syrup and 33 gallons of moonshine.

No untoward incident was reported by any of the sleuthing parties which numbered American Legion members among their ranks. The extensive campaign had been planned for several days. Twenty-five automobiles were turned over to the officials by their owners for use in carrying the contraband hunters into every nook and cranny of the county.

Sheriff Merritt expressed himself as highly pleased with the results in to the county's illicit industry and said similar campaigns would be carried out until moonshine making had been completely stilled.

PERSHING AGAIN DEFENDS ARMY

WASHINGTON, March 14.—(By the Associated Press)—House appropriation committee proposals to cut the regular army to 115,000 enlisted men and 11,000 officers aroused General Pershing today to a renewed declaration that the whole national defense project put through in 1920 would be imperiled if the slash recommended was made by Congress. Success of that "second military policy and system of national defense," he said in a statement to the Associated Press, depended upon the adequate provision of the military establishment.

"The fibre of the regular army has been thoroughly tested," General Pershing said, "by the strains placed upon it, not only in time of war, but in time of peace when it has had to withstand the on-lufts made upon it in the name of economy or patriotism. It appears now, due to the demands for economy in our national expenditures, another critical hour for the army, and the national defense is at hand."

Referring to the "frequent slashes" in army strength made by Congress since the war, General Pershing said a "vacillating course" with respect to army personnel discouraged competent men from entering the service and lowered morale and efficiency within the army and it was "difficult if not impossible to use to advantage the service of even the best of such personnel."

"But whatever Congress may see fit to grant," the chief of staff added, "the army will as it always has, apply itself to giving the nation as much national defense as it can. It will not quit, no matter how badly crippled."

Many Are Tried For Stealing Autos

CHICAGO, March 15.—Two-thirds of the automobiles stolen here are taken between 7:30 and midnight, and by far the greatest number at 10 o'clock, while their owners are at the theaters and other places of amusement, according to the committee on motor car thefts of the Chicago Crime Commission. These hundred and 23 persons were tried here in connection with motor car thefts between January 1 and August 15, 1921.

Other observations of the committee follow:

A thief has been known to walk into a large public garage at night and cover the watchman and other employees with a gun while he drove away with the car of his choice. The thief usually prefers to hold up a man about to put his automobile in a garage, rather than to break into a garage after the car is locked up.

By far the greatest number of stolen automobiles were taken not because of the intrinsic value but to be used in various forms of law-breaking.

The large percentage of thefts seem to be committed by men or boys under the age of 25 years.

"The careless and indifferent motorist is responsible for the loss of many cars," says the committee. "Many hundreds of passenger cars are left standing at the curb, in alleys, in yards and other unguarded places throughout Chicago every night. Many are not protected by any locking device or lights. Many valuable cars are left standing along boulevards and other streets with engine running while their owners are elsewhere."

For these reasons the committee expects good results from action of insurance companies in reducing rates in motor car thefts and requiring the owner to accept 25 per cent. of the loss on stolen cars.

Establishment of a parking space where motor cars may be left under police guard for a fee has, in the opinion of the committee, done much to reduce thefts.

Mrs. Ford and Neighbors Hold Wake Over Monkey

RICHMOND, March 14.—A wake was held last night over a pet monkey belonging to Mrs. Susan Ford of this city. On invitation of Mrs. Ford, neighbors called to pay their last respects to the simian which succumbed to pneumonia following a few days' illness. As the neighbors sat around the coffin and condoled with Mrs. Ford, she told them of the history of the animal, its playful tricks and good nature. In departing each was given a flower as a reminder of the occasion. "Dick" Blankenship, a veterinarian man at the capitol, was among those in attendance. The monkey was buried today with appropriate honors.
